Naples Daily News

In the 2006-07 season, the Claremont Trio, hailed as “deft, exhilarating, and imaginative” by Strings Magazine, embarked on a concert tour throughout every region of the U.S. First recipients of the Kalichstein-Laredo-Robinson International Trio Award, the Claremonts (Emily Bruskin, violin; Julia Bruskin, 'cello; Donna Kwong, piano) generate enthusiastic acclaim wherever they perform.

Deeply committed to expanding the piano trio repertoire, the group has commissioned and premiered compositions by Daniel Kellogg, Mason Bates, and Hillary Zipper. The Trio is also extensively involved in music education and has been recognized for its engaging and interactive programs for students of all ages.

Spring Concert

The SQST will present the Biava String Quartet in concert on Sunday, April 27, 2007, at 4:00 p.m. in the Moody Music Building, The University of Alabama. Please watch for a March mailing regarding this performance.

The String Quartet Society of Tuscaloosa (SQST)

A non-profit organization of volunteers, the SQST has both a cultural and an educational mission. The SQST seeks to enrich the lives of people in the Tuscaloosa area by (a) providing two formal concerts each year by outstanding professional ensembles, and (b) collaborating with other groups to support spring programs in area schools. The SQST provides free tickets to its concerts to all students.
